

Do you work in social care in Wales? Here's how we can support you

Most social care workers in Wales must register with us because it's a legal requirement.

Being on the Register means you're part of a professional workforce and can show you have the skills and knowledge to provide good care and support to the people of Wales.

We will support you with:

Your registration

- You can manage your registration through SCWonline.
- There are resources to guide you through the registration process.
- The 'registration essentials' document has information about how to maintain your registration.
- You can access a one-stop-shop for a range of resources about Wales's social care legislation.

Your career to provide professional and safe care and support including:

- information to help you plan your Continuous professional development (CPD)
- guidance for workers about completing the All Wales induction framework and other qualifications
- resources to help you use Welsh at work, including free Camau Welsh language courses for social care workers
- a range of online learning modules.

Your health and well-being

- You can download a care worker card on SCWonline. The card recognises people working in the sector and provides access to various benefits.
- Our well-being pages have lots of information to support you with your physical, mental and financial well-being. There's also information about accessing a support line called Canopi.

How you can support others working in social care

- Have your say by taking part in consultations, surveys and events.
- Become an ambassador for social care through the WeCare Ambassador scheme.
